Multifocal Motor Neuropathy (MMN) Month

February 2025

WHEREAS this month we raise awareness of Multifocal Motor Neuropathy, a rare disorder that causes a person's immune system to attack their own multiple motor nerves. The cause of MMN remains unknown. This condition can affect individuals of any gender or ethnic background.

MMN tends to progress gradually and can eventually lead to debilitating weakness or paralysis, loss of independence and the need for ongoing treatment.

While there is no cure for MMN, an early diagnosis can flag the physical symptoms and may help prevent the disorder from progressing.

The City of Toronto acknowledges with gratitude, organizations that are committed to providing support and resources for the well-being of Toronto residents. Through education, fundraising and support, the health of our communities are improved.

NOW THEREFORE, I, Mayor Olivia Chow, on behalf of Toronto City Council, do hereby proclaim February 2025 as "Multifocal Motor Neuropathy Month" in the City of Toronto.
